Character

A gleaming ruby-red wine with powerful blackberry aromas, complemented by redcurrant, elder and plum. Alongside these is a wonderful vanilla spice note and a hint of dried fruit. Wonderfully soft on the palate, with soft tannins and a slight initial sweetness. The intense fruit is supported on a full, very supple and harmonious structure and the finish is long and sustained.

Producer

Bodegas Borsao

More than 2000 hectares of excellent vineyards, three wine cellars and exports to over 50 countries worldwide: this is Bodega Borsao in Campo de Borja D.O. Viticulture has existed in the region ever since the 12th century. The exceptional climate and the excellent influences from the Mediterranean and Atlantic can be put to perfect use here to the benefit of the wines. The region is known as the 'Empire of the Garnacha' because the grape originated here before being exported from the Kingdom of Aragon to Europe during its expansion. Bodegas Borsao is passionately committed to high quality and value in everything it does, which was rewarded almost 10 years ago by Wine Advocate with the prestigious title of 'Winery of the Year'.
